ABOUT THE CRSP U.S. MID CAP GROWTH INDEX

The Center for Research in Security Prices (CRSP) is the recognized leading provider of research-quality, historical market data and returns. Founded in 1960 to develop the first definitive measurement of long-run market returns, CRSP has long been an integral part of the academic and commercial world of financial and economic research. Since its inception, CRSP has partnered with the investment industry to develop and maintain databases and market indexes that are widely used by academics and commercial practitioners.

The CRSP U.S. Growth Style Indexes are part of CRSP's investable index family. Once securities are assigned to a size-based market cap index, they are made eligible for assignment to a growth or value index using CRSP's multifactor model.

CRSP classifies growth securities using the following factors: future long-term growth in earnings per share (EPS), future short-term growth in EPS, 3-year historical growth in EPS, 3-year historical growth in sales per share, current investment-to-assets ratio, and return on assets.

The historical performance statistics of CRSP’s market cap indexes are based upon 10 years of backtest data from January 1, 2001, through March 31, 2011. Subsequent backtesting was completed with June 29, 2001, as the start date in order to align with the value and growth style indexes. As is common industry practice, CRSP backtest data does not include float shares. Descriptive statistics are based upon current index constituents. Backtest results are not indicative of future performance.
